A resolution setting forth that "Public states, in our opinion, will vote against saloon beneath the Stars and Stripes," was the subject of debate Friday night at a meeting held by Washington Council, No. 1, Fraternal Sons of Jonadab. The members assembled in their headquarters at Society Temple, and each member had something to say upon the resolution.

On motion of James Y. Sanders the public statement of Mr. H. B. F. Macfarland, president of the board of Commissioners, concerning the local liquor traffic was also taken up for discussion. One member declared that "if the liquor question in the District of Columbia should ever be submitted to vote let all citizens have a vooice in disposing of it, whether they are property owners or not." The idea of having only the voice of "taxpayers" in the proposed liquor law voted liquor out of the Capitol building. The next move should be to drive it out of the Capital city, and make Washington a model temperance city," said Mr. Scrivener, and he then read from a paper of V. H. Rutherford of England on "Alcoholism and Legislation," as follows: "How much better the world would be without alcohol God only knows. terday morning said life had been extinct our own country no second sight is need- ed to foresee a mighty improvement in o the lives and homes of the people, and is in the insurance business. Bishop Johnson, pastor of the church, in introducing him, said: "This is the gentleman who has added in a sigsettlement met with the unanimous dis-approval of the council. "Congress has nificant manner to the advancement of education in the District of Columbia." Dr. Chancellor gave a definition of school studies in his address, saying: 'Physiology is a religious study, or rather the motive that underlies the study of physiology. The body is the temple of the physiology. The body is the temple of the soul and physiology teaches how to take care of the body. History is dictated by religion. It is essentially a religious study, because the hand of the Lord is visible in every step of history. It shows how God works in the world. Literature is essentially a religious study. It tells how our fellow-men feel about life. The three studies physiology, history and literature are an illustration of the influence religion has on school studies."

He concluded by saying that education teaches us how to sail toward the goal. "Thousands of years ago," he said, "the Greeks learned how to sail against the wind; they learned it after many trials and experiments and were successful Thank God for opposition."

Death of Mrs. LeRoy Smith. The sudden death Saturday of Mrs. Le Roy S. Smith of New York has been announced to her friends in this city. Mrs. Smith was president of the New York Society of Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, and has held the most important offices in the patriotic societies since 1890. Her last official work SIGN OF THE FOUR was in the endowment of the warden's pew of Bruton Church, Williamsburg, where a tablet was placed by the society to the memor, of Go. Matthews, 1622-

Mrs Smith descended from the Adams family of Massachusetts. She was a sister of Mrs. Flora Adams Darling of this city, where she was well known. Her death is greatly deplored. Her funeral will take place tomorrow.
